Strengthen your leadership skills and take your career to the next level.

Why UE?

Managers have more demanding jobs than ever. The best companies look for talents with a good mix of professional, organisational and personal qualifications. Our Master's programme in International Business Management meets these demands, taking you and your skills to the next level.

In addition to professional skills and knowledge taught by excellent professors from science and business, you will also strengthen your scientific methods during the master's programme. Through interdisciplinary modules and individual support, you will expand your social skills in order to successfully complete management roles. Case studies, business games, project and research internships with well-known business partners also expand your theoretical education.

This master's programme can easily be combined with a second job, as our lectures take place between Wednesday afternoon and Saturday evening.
